A captivating 13-day itinerary to discover one of the greatest civilisations on our planet, travelling through Rajasthan in a progressive and easy-to-follow way, with a constant balance between the intensity of the programme and real comfort. From the capital Delhi, a necessary gateway to understanding contemporary India and its layers, we enter Rajasthan with a clear transition towards the Thar Desert and its fortress cities.

We reach Jaisalmer, the “Golden City”, carved in yellow sandstone on the edge of the desert, with a fort that is still inhabited and is not only a monument, but a true living urban structure. We continue to Jodhpur, the “Blue City”, dominated by the powerful fortress of Mehrangarh, and then on to Ranakpur, where Jain architecture reaches one of its absolute peaks with the Adinath Temple and its 1,444 columns, each one different. The route continues towards Udaipur, the city of lakes, with palaces and terraces overlooking the water and a slower, more aristocratic atmosphere.

After Udaipur, the journey crosses the epic dimension of Rajput history with Chittorgarh, and the spiritual dimension with Pushkar, a sacred town, compact and suspended around the lake. We then arrive in Jaipur, the “Pink City”, founded in the 18th century according to mathematical and astronomical principles, with Amber Fort, the City Palace, the Jantar Mantar observatory and the iconic Palace of the Winds. The journey ends with Agra, experiencing one of the most intense moments at dawn at the Taj Mahal, before returning to Delhi.

It will be an intense yet orderly route, in which everyday life, history, architecture and landscape alternate coherently. A journey built to leave an indelible memory, and to bring out the most authentic side of the experience and of those who undertake it.
